February Commentary

Your Fund returned +0.1% during the month compared to +0.7% for the MSCI World Index NR (£).

Shares in L'Oréal were first bought for the Fund early in 2018. The company exemplifies many of the characteristics we value highly in our investments. It is managed for the very long term, overseen by the Bettencourt family and Nestlé, its controlling shareholders, with a rock-solid balance sheet and an ingrained creative and entrepreneurial culture. Over decades, the company has demonstrated the flexibility to adapt to outgrow one of the most dynamic consumer categories globally. Finally, and in addition to attractive financial metrics, L'Oréal has an admirable ESG record. This was recently recognised by the Carbon Disclosure Project (CDP) which once again awarded the company a triple 'A' rating for its many environmental initiatives.

L'Oréal's capacity for survival and innovation came to the fore in 2020. With a -75% reduction in global travel and the closure of many retail outlets, the company's longstanding investments in e-commerce and digital marketing paid off handsomely. E-commerce represented over a quarter of total revenues in 2020, growing +62%, and helped the group take market share in all parts of the business. L'Oréal's determined focus on premium skincare and active cosmetics has transformed the organisation and reduced its dependence on slower growing and lower margin mass-market segments. Critically, this shift positions L'Oréal well in China, which is the biggest skincare market on the planet and a huge engine for future growth. L'Oréal's revenue in China bucked the global trend and grew +27% last year with over 60% of sales generated online.

In all our many years of following L'Oréal, the shares never come at a bargain price. Today is no exception. We have every confidence, however, that just like the company's consumers, the shares are 'worth it.'
