June Commentary

Your Fund returned -5.0% during the month compared to -5.2% for the MSCI World Index NR (£).

Investors have moved quickly to anticipate recession as central banks belatedly react to spiking inflation. The Fund has been less defensive than we hoped, ending the quarter down -10.5% compared to -9.1% for the global index. We continue to work hard to retain our focus on long-term outcomes and we believe many companies in the portfolio offer excellent value today. Alphabet is representative. Its shares are caught in the tech downdraft this year and now have a trailing free cash flow (FCF) yield of 5%, a similar valuation to the wider market. However, Alphabet's FCF deducts a far higher R&D and capex burden than the average business whilst growing significantly faster. Since becoming shareholders at the end of 2013, Alphabet's FCF per share has grown at a compounded rate of +25% p.a.. Yes, future growth will slow as the business matures. Advertising revenues will have some cyclical in a recession.

And regulatory and competitive pressures are intensifying. Yet a meeting with the company in June confirmed our optimism about Alphabet's longer-term prospects. The company's vast resources allow it to invest aggressively through the economic cycle to capitalise on large opportunities across Search, video streaming and cloud computing. Alphabet's lead in AI is making its services more useful and differentiated. We expect these strong fundamentals to ultimately drive attractive returns for its shareholders.
