The investment objective of the Trojan Ethical Fund (Ireland) is to provide capital growth (net of fees), ahead of inflation (UK Retail Price Index), over the longer term (5 to 7 years). Its investment policy is to invest across a broad range of asset classes. Whilst asset allocation will vary, in general, the investment universe will comprise high-quality, developed market equities, developed market government bonds, gold related investments, cash and money market instruments (such as treasury bills). The portfolio will be constructed with input from both top-down analysis (looking at an economy as a whole) and bottom-up analysis (study of individual securities). The Fund will invest in accordance with the parameters of its Ethical Exclusion Criteria.

November Commentary

Your Fund (X Acc GBP) returned +0.9% during the month.

November was a busy month for our investment team, with colleagues meeting companies across the world, from Switzerland to Seattle. Of portfolio holdings, we met with Unilever, Nestlé, Microsoft and Visa, alongside various other companies not currently owned. The preparation that goes into these meetings, combined with the discussions that follow, provide invaluable insights into current holdings and new ideas.

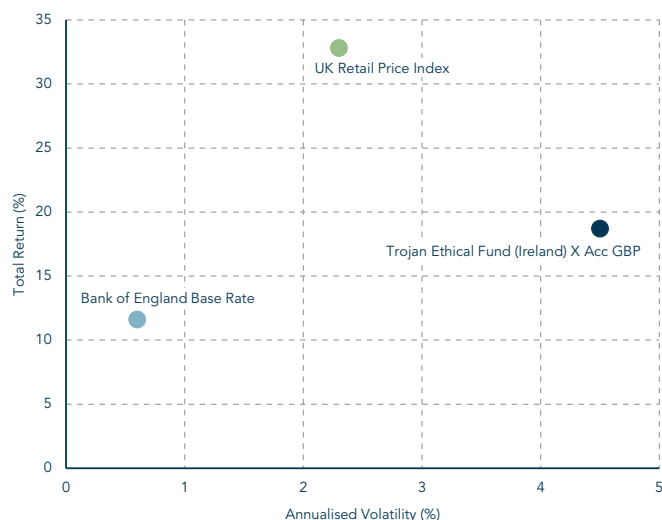

The most in-depth company encounters are often investor days hosted by the companies themselves, and we attended Unilever's, Nestlé's and Mastercard's in the month. Unilever's event underlined our confidence in the company's improved execution, which we wrote about in depth in October's fact sheet. When it comes to Nestlé, the shares have been weak since we reduced the holding at the beginning of 2022. In hindsight, we should have sold more but we believe that there is a margin of safety in today's valuation of 16x earnings and 4% dividend yield. The investor day served to underline that Nestlé's end-markets will remain challenging for some time, but that the company is increasing investment behind its brands and improving the focus of its innovation efforts. We believe that shareholder returns from here are likely to be compelling.

One of our colleagues attended the Mastercard investor day and another met with Visa's CFO. We currently own Visa, Mastercard and American Express in the Fund. These meetings, combined with an in-depth update on the sector written by the team, have helped in re-emphasising to us the attractiveness of investing in these payments networks. Our holdings are well placed to enable the switch of commercial (business-to-business) payments from cash, cheque or bank transfer, to card transactions. Businesses have been slower than consumers to digitise, but this is now happening from a low base. On top of that, Visa's revenues are increasingly comprised of value-added services which are growing strongly double digits. We believe that, as the consumer card market becomes more mature, these will provide strong drivers of sales growth for many years to come.

Important Information

Please refer to Troy's Glossary of Investment terms here. Fund performance data provided is calculated net of fees with income reinvested unless stated otherwise. All performance and income data is in relation to the stated share class, performance of other share classes may differ. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. Overseas investments may be affected by movements in currency exchange rates. The value of an investment and any income from it may fall as well as rise and investors may get back less than they invested. The historic dividend yield reflects distributions declared over the past twelve months as a percentage of the fund's price, as at the date shown. The yield is not guaranteed and will fluctuate. It does not include any preliminary charge and investors may be subject to tax on their distributions. The UK Retail Prices Index (RPI) is a target benchmark for the fund as the Fund aims to achieve a return (the money made or lost on an investment) that is above the rate of inflation, reference to other benchmarks are for comparative purposes only. Tax legislation and the levels of relief from taxation can change at any time. Any change in the tax status of a Fund or in tax legislation could affect the value of the investments held by the Fund or its ability to provide returns to its investors. The tax treatment of an investment, and any dividends received, will depend on the individual circumstances of the investor and may be subject to change in the future. There is no guarantee that the objective of the investments will be met. The Fund may use currency forward derivatives for the purpose of efficient portfolio management. The UK RPI figures shown are a combination of the actual rate of RPI, as calculated by the Office of National Statistics, and estimates for the previous month. This is a marketing communication.
