July Commentary

Your Fund delivered a total return of -1.1% during the month compared to -3.6% the return of the FTSE-All Share Index (TR).

The month of July saw the normal torrent of corporate earnings announcements relating to what has been a far from normal first half of the year. These results statements are a continued reminder, if one was needed, of the importance of strong business models, healthy margins and conservative financing. Sabre Insurance was the single biggest contributor to the Fund's performance in the period after publishing a set of figures that reflected these qualities.

As a niche operator in the otherwise highly competitive motor insurance industry, Sabre is able to focus on underwriting profitably rather than obsess about volume and market share. Healthy margins combined with a decline in claims, as drivers were kept off the roads by lockdown, meant earnings have behaved defensively and the company has not had to furlough staff or draw on government support measures. It has also allowed the company to support its more vulnerable customers through the pandemic. The company also retains a significant capital buffer above that demanded by the regulator.

The combination of resilient cash generation and a prudent capital structure has allowed Sabre to demonstrate to its regulator that it can both afford to pay investors an ordinary dividend and distribute excess accumulated capital in the form of a 5.2p special dividend.

Not all companies in the wider market, or indeed the Fund, have proven as robust as Sabre through the global pandemic. The challenges in the first half of 2020 have manifested themselves in wide-ranging cancellations, cuts, or deferrals of dividends. In the UK market, Q2 dividends were less than half the level paid out last year.

Whilst your Fund has been more resilient so far, it has not been immune, and will pay out an interim dividend of 1.2p, versus 1.78p a year ago. The reduction also reflects a number of active portfolio decisions taken over the past ~18 months to bolster dividend growth and sustainability at the expense of headline yield. In spite of this, we are confident that recent and ongoing changes improve the durability of underlying free cash flow growth, thereby supporting the Fund's long-term income-generation potential.
