January Commentary

Your Fund returned +2.0% during the month compared to -3.2% for the FTSE All-Share Index (TR).

The post-election relief rally proved short-lived and recent market trends have reasserted themselves. 'Value' sectors such as oil, mining, banks and retail remain challenged. Many Christmas trading statements were even worse than expected as retailers remain vulnerable to accelerating online trends. For equity investors, companies with deteriorating profitability and cash flow prove difficult to value; with hindsight, expectations have been too optimistic. A slower start to the year was compounded by the threat of the Coronavirus (2019nCoV). It is too early to tell the extent to which the virus will affect global growth.

After a 14-year holding period, we sold the Fund's holding in the accountancy software company, Sage. We have become increasingly concerned that the company is struggling to compete with newer, more agile and user-friendly competitors. Whereas in many industries longevity can bestow scale and incumbency advantages, this can often be a hindrance in software. Systems built over years tend to be optimised for a different hardware set-up and suffer what has been labelled "tech debt" – the cost of reworking existing processes rather than starting from scratch. So-called cloud-native companies, whose code is largely written for a world of distributed computer power, have an advantage over these legacy businesses. We expect Sage may be at risk from this dynamic. The margin reset a year ago was an indication of the company's historic underinvestment. Sage may see significant pricing pressure once customers realise they can buy a better product for a significantly lower price. The valuation looks to be discounting a brighter future than this.
