January Commentary

Your Fund returned -6.2% during the month compared to -4.4% for the MSCI World Index NR (£). Global stockmarkets struggled in the face of rising interest rate expectations and a sharp rotation away from higher-valued companies. We added further to the Fund's holdings in the card networks, Mastercard and Visa, and acquired a new holding in Adobe.

Large-scale M&A was another major theme for the Fund during the month. Microsoft announced the acquisition of game developer Activision Blizzard for $75bn in an all-cash deal. Elsewhere in video gaming, Take-Two Interactive Software stated its intention to buy mobile game publisher Zynga for $12.7bn in cash and stock. Lastly, Unilever revealed it had offered £50bn for GSK's Consumer Healthcare division.

We much prefer our companies to grow primarily through internal initiatives because these typically entail less risk and higher returns on capital. However, it is often in the nature of leading companies to consolidate their smaller peers.

In considering the strategic and financial merits of these latest deals, we find it hard to see how Unilever would add sufficient value to justify the expensive purchase price and its associated debt. We engaged privately with the company's Chairman and CEO to express our opposition. In the cases of Microsoft and Take-Two, the valuations of the purchased assets are reasonable and the strategic rationale compelling. Microsoft gets marquee content for its new gaming subscription service. Take-Two can bring its popular console and PC games to mobile. The risk for both comes in integrating big, diverse organisations. We take confidence from the distinguished track records of their respective management teams.
