Past performance is not a guide to future performance

December Commentary

The Fund produced a return of +1.2% during the month compared to a return of +3.9% for the FTSE All-Share Index (TR).

Investor sentiment continued to recover in the month, helped by news of further regulatory approvals for COVID-19 vaccines and the long-awaited signing of a trade deal between Britain and the EU.

For the calendar year 2020, the UK market fell by -9.8% (TR). Your Fund delivered a similar return of -10.0%, but as is often the case, by taking a different path. Having protected capital considerably better during the market sell-off in the earlier part of the year, the Fund has also had a less dramatic recovery. In recent months, cyclical stocks in particular have led the market higher, whilst more defensive assets have been left behind. As always in such periods, we look for opportunities to add to out-of-favour holdings where the underlying operational momentum is strong.

Reflecting on portfolio activity over the year as a whole, this has been a productive period with various changes that we believe will underpin future resilience and returns for investors. We disposed of companies that no longer fit our investment criteria whilst further aligning the Fund to those high-quality companies in which we are confident of future income and capital growth. Sales included Lloyds Banking Group, BP, Royal Dutch Shell and Land Securities. New holdings include Croda, Intertek, Paychex and the Fund's most recent addition, InterContinental Hotels Group.

Looking beyond 2020, and with the threat of a disorderly exit from the EU behind us, we would expect the relative value of UK assets to be better supported than in recent years, not least by foreign buyers/investors. The UK is home to many excellent companies, particularly those with international earnings, enviable economics and healthy dividend growth prospects. It is to such companies that your Fund is overwhelmingly exposed.
