

Trojan Fund (Ireland)

The Fund seeks to achieve growth in capital, ahead of inflation (UK Retail Price Index), over the longer term (5 to 7 years). The Fund employs a long-term, long only approach and has the flexibility to invest across a broad range of asset classes, most commonly a combination of high-quality developed market equities, developed market government bonds, gold related investments and cash.

April Commentary

Your Fund (O Acc GBP) returned +0.4% during the month.

There are times in markets where the path ahead appears relatively straightforward and other occasions where the range of potential outcomes seems very wide. Today feels more like the latter than the former. War in Europe and the Middle East, sticky inflation, a record global election year and higher interest rates that are not reflected in equity valuations all give us pause for thought. The pace of technological change has also accelerated with the growing role of AI across industries. With so much uncertainty it is reassuring that several companies we hold in the Fund are continuing to operate exceptionally well in this rapidly changing environment.

Alphabet's research has led to many of the AI advancements we see today. They continue to deliver strong results across its major business units, including cloud services where it is benefiting from demand for AI applications. Microsoft, a company the Fund has held since inception, is also a significant beneficiary of the growth in AI. Their Azure cloud computing service and the integration of AI into Microsoft Office through Copilot have both helped growth accelerate as businesses around the world choose Microsoft as their trusted AI partner. 60% of the Fortune 500 already use Office Copilot. Microsoft grew their Azure cloud revenue +31% compared to a year earlier, an impressive feat when Azure is estimated to already have over $70bn of annual revenue.

Unilever, held since inception, is less impacted by AI but has seen an improvement in execution since Hein Schumacher became CEO in July last year. Unilever's most recent results were reassuring. Organic sales increased +4.4%, with a healthy balance of both volume and price growth. Robust organic sales growth across both emerging and developed markets suggests the business is navigating a weaker consumer and volatile commodity prices well.

During April we took some profits from our gold holding, following a strong move higher in its price. We retain a healthy holding as we believe that gold provides essential portfolio insurance and will remain a coveted store of value in an increasingly uncertain world. For those interested, the recently published investment report discusses gold in more detail.

Important Information

Please refer to Troy's Glossary of Investment terms here. Fund performance data provided is calculated net of fees with income reinvested unless stated otherwise. All performance and income data is in relation to the stated share class, performance of other share classes may differ. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. Overseas investments may be affected by movements in currency exchange rates. The value of an investment and any income from it may fall as well as rise and investors may get back less than they invested. The historic dividend yield reflects distributions declared over the past twelve months as a percentage of the fund's price, as at the date shown. The yield is not guaranteed and will fluctuate. It does not include any preliminary charge and investors may be subject to tax on their distributions. The UK Retail Prices Index (RPI) is a target benchmark for the fund as the Fund aims to achieve a return (the money made or lost on an investment) that is above the rate of inflation, reference to other benchmarks are for comparative purposes only. Tax legislation and the levels of relief from taxation can change at any time. Any change in the tax status of a Fund or in tax legislation could affect the value of the investments held by the Fund or its ability to provide returns to its investors. The tax treatment of an investment, and any dividends received, will depend on the individual circumstances of the investor and may be subject to change in the future. There is no guarantee that the objective of the investments will be met. The Fund may use currency forward derivatives for the purpose of efficient portfolio management. The UK RPI figures shown are a combination of the actual rate of RPI, as calculated by the Office of National Statistics, and estimates for the previous month. This is a marketing communication.
