December Commentary

Your Fund returned -1.8% during the month compared to -1.2% for the MSCI World Index (NR) GBP.

Over the year the Fund returned +8.7% compared to the peer group return of +11.2% but some way behind the technology led MSCI World Index which returned +20.8%. Over the same period the MSCI High Dividend Yield Net Total Return Index, which while not the benchmark for the Fund can, nevertheless, also be a relevant comparator, returned +9.9%.

As is often the case it was a year of two halves. Relative returns were constrained for the first 6 months of the year but recovered somewhat as the year progressed. The top three contributors over the 12 months were British American Tobacco which rose by +37.2%, Philip Morris up +34.7% (in Sterling) and Unilever which climbed by +23.7%. The shares of each company had been deeply out of favour at the beginning of the year reminding one that sometimes the most uncomfortable holdings generate the best returns.

Conversely two of the key detractors were Pernod Ricard and Nestle. Both companies have been excellent long-term compounders of shareholder capital but have been disappointing since May 2023. Valuations achieved at that time proved to be unsustainable. As the COVID boom has waned and concerns have appeared around end demand from changing consumer tastes and the adoption of weight-loss drugs the shares have derated. In each case we think that the current valuations give protection against these worries which although valid, are unlikely to negate the long-term competitive advantages and opportunities these companies enjoy in our view.

2025 promises to be an interesting year as the positive and negative effects of the Trump agenda play out in markets. While equity markets so far have been upbeat, rising bond yields appear to represent an increasing risk to equity valuations.

The Q4 dividend, paid on 31st December 2024, was declared at 0.964p. The total distribution for 2024 was 4.0175p which represents an increase of 4.0% relative to 2023, reflecting the robustness of the portfolio's income generation notwithstanding uncertainty over the near term outlook.
